Murder Occurs During Hold-Up At Pittsburgh

Unemployed Electrician Is Ruthlessly Slain During Barroom Robbery

THREE GUNMEN SHARE IN CRIME

Frank P. Walker, 50, Is Victim Of Cold-Blooded Murder At Mt. Washington

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, March 24.—Frank P. Walker, 50, an unemployed electrician, was ruthlessly killed early today when he accidentally stumbled against one of a trio of gunmen holding up the barroom of the Beltzhoover hotel in suburban Mt. Washington.

Then, as the victim lay on the barroom floor, his slayer scooped up the contents of the cash register, calmly walked to the door and before leaving with his companions, said:

"Don't anybody call the cops."

Forced To Remove Trousers.

James M. Varone, 37, the proprietor, and four other customers were not molested. They were forced to remove their trousers. But Varone ran into the streets a few seconds after the robber gang left and summoned police.

Varone gave a graphic description of the holdup:

"It was just a few minutes before closing time. A stranger walked in and ordered a short beer. After I served him he turned and walked to the door. As he opened it two other men came in. I noticed one was about six feet tall and had a black mustache. He pulled a gun and said: 'This is a stickup. Get your hands up.'

Walker Is Shot Down.

"His friend, a shorter man, covered the customers, including Walker. The other man went behind the bar and motioned for me to join the others. Then he made us take off our pants. As we started to do that, Walker stumbled against the shorter man.

"The leader of the gang must have thought it was a figth. He turned from the register, one hand full of money, the other holding the gun.

"Without saying a word, he deliberately killed Walker."

Varone and his customers were studying Bertillon pictures in an effort to identify the holdupmen.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Work has been started by the city street department on fixing up the unpaved streets. The street grader is now at work on the North Hill streets. Paving work of the past few years has decreased the number of streets needing attention of the street department force, and it is expected that the number will be much smaller before another year rolls around. The paving program of the summer will reduce the number of unimproved streets by a considerable number, if the present plans are carried out.

Capital Leaders And Roosevelt To Discuss Troubles

Will See If Anything Can Be Done To Stop Sit-Down Strikes

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 24.—President Roosevelt will engage in a series of conferences with congressional and administration leaders soon after his return from Warm Springs on Saturday to consider what, if anything, can be done by the federal government to check the epidemic of sit-down strikes.

Mr. Roosevelt talked by telephone late yesterday with both Senator Robinson, Democratic leader of the senate, and speaker Bankhead.

Numerous senators and members of the house have said in speeches that the president ought to "do something," although there has not been any unanimity of opinion as to what he could do.

The president told Robinson and Bankhead he would discuss the matter with them upon his return.

President Against Court Compromise

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 24.—President Roosevelt has kept in close touch with the fight over supreme court reorganization during his sojourn in Georgia, and to those leaders with whom he has frequently communicated he has made it clear he wants it fought out to the end—with no compromise.

The criticisms of Chief Justice Hughes and of Senator Burton K. Wheeler, long considered a radical Democrat, have alike left him cold.

To the arguments of the Wheelers, the Borahs, the Norrises and others in favor of a constitutional amendment, he has reiterated that it would not be possible to get one through by the end of his second term.

Will Demand Final Action

Moreover, he is prepared to insist that congress sit until his proposal is disposed of, irrespective of how long that may be. He is planning a Gulf trip for the last of April, and if June and July sees the debate still going on it is probable Mr.

Dr. Harold Dodds Opposes Proposal To Increase Court

Princeton University President Warns Americans On Roosevelt's Plan

SAYS PRESIDENT IS 'ROCKING THE BOAT'

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 24.—Warning Americans to preserve their Democratic institutions in a world rife with the surrender of popular government, President Harold Willis Dodds of Princeton, today assailed President Roosevelt's judicial plan as a "scheme by which he hopes to control the opinions of the supreme court."

The university head declared "tempestuous gales" had swept democracies into the discard all over the world, after emergencies provoked people into surrendering "some features of popular government." This was the exact manner, he said, in which the Nazis rose to control of Germany.

President Dodds told the senate judiciary committee the president was "rocking the boat" by asserting his court plan was required to meet a new emergency. He charged the president was basing his demand upon a "dangerous emergency psychology" that could lead easily to the destruction of self-government in America.

Dodds declared "it is possible to be far out of sympathy with the reasoning (of the court) in some opinions and still to be bitterly opposed to executive domination of the courts."

"I recognize social change as inevitable and necessary," he said. "But it is not the part of wisdom to destroy one desirable social institution in the thought that others

Son Of Secretary Of Interior Held For Accident On Wheeling Island

(International News Service)

WHEELING, W. Va., March 24.—Robert Ickes, 23-year-old son of Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior, was held for the grand jury today, charged with striking a pedestrian with his car and then fleeing. Police arrested him in bed early yesterday, they reported.

Police charged young Ickes with striking with his car and seriously injuring Charles Borchart, 46, Monday night on Wheeling Island. The car which struck Borchart, police said, failed to stop. Authorities reported they traced the car by the license number to Martins Ferry, O., where they arrested Ickes.

Ickes, who said he was employed by the Russ Construction Company at Yorkville, O., denied striking Borchart, asserting the man staggered into the street in front of his car. Ickes said he stopped his car. The man fell to the street he said, then got up and returned to the sidewalk. Ickes continued on his way after that, he told the police.

State Institutional Building Program Is Facing Handicaps

By FREDERICK N. POLANGIN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, March 24.—Fulfillment of Pennsylvania's contemplated $60,000,000 institutional building program under the general state authority act, it was learned today, is threatened by federal restrictions and the attitude of organized labor.

And, it was learned, administration leaders must once again appeal to President Roosevelt to remove some of the strings attached to a recent $15,000,000 grant to be spent on labor. If this is not done, Democratic chieftains are fearful that much of Gov. George H. Earle's plans to eliminate overcrowding, fire and panic hazards in the commonwealth's institutions, must remain on the shelf until a way out is found.

This time, International News Service learned, Pennsylvania's emissary to the nation's chief executive will be its United States senator, Joseph F. Guffey.

Following negotiations with federal PWA officials after the validation of the general state authority, President Roosevelt allowed the state a $20,000,000 outright grant for the projects, providing $15,000,000 of this sum was spent for labor taken from the relief rolls. Pennsylvania was also "assured" of a loan up to $50,000,000, while the remaining $5,000,000 was alloted for non-relief work such as architects and engineers.

Restrictions Are Handicap.

Administration leaders, however, has discovered that the restrictions placed on the $15,000,000 "grant"

New Moves By Hitler And Mussolini Give Europe More Concern

(International News Service)

LONDON, March 24.—Britain's cabinet met today to consider what is viewed here as the most serious situation between Britain and Italy since the Mediterranean crisis during the Italo-Ethiopian war.

The growing tension between England and Italy and Premier Mussolini's threats regarding intervention in Spain's civil war were the chief topics discussed by cabinet ministers.

Political observers believe the cabinet will instruct foreign secretary Anthony Eden to try to calm the situation since Britain is still unprepared to risk a clash with Il Duce, although infuriated by his threats to British influence in the Mediterranean and his anti-British "antagonism."

In spite of the new crisis, however, British officials believe the land and sea control scheme framed to preserve neutrality in Spain will go into effect on Monday as scheduled.

A full meeting of the non-intervention committee will be held this

Teachers Tenure Bill Is Supported

State Superintendent Declares Administration Is Firmly Backing Proposal

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Mrch 24.—Pennsylvania school teachers had the assurance today that the administration backs firmly a legislative proposal for teachers' tenure and prevention of "political wrecking" of teaching staffs through unwarranted dismissals.

Dr. Lester K. Ade, state superintendent of public instruction, told a public hearing here last night attended by more than 1,000 teachers from many sections of the state, that instructors could show little enthusiasm in their work if the threat of "blanket dismissals" is always hanging over them.

"Tenure legislation is necessary because of a relatively small group of boards of directors whose practices in employment and dismissal of teachers are not conditioned to the best interests of the schools", Ade said.

The teachers' tenure bill, introduced in the senate by Sen. Leo C. Mundy, D., Luzerne, has been passed by the upper chamber and now rests in a house committee. It prevents dismissal of teachers "without cause" and would require school boards to list reasons for dismissals and grant trials if warranted.

Santucci And Perconti Will Be Freed District Attorney Announces

HELD ON CHARGES OF BEING ACCESSORIES

Regardless of the verdict in the Sam Traci case, Sam Santucci and Paul Perconti can expect their liberty within the next 24 hours. District Attorney Mont L. Ailey said today that he would ask the court to nolle prosse the case of accessory after the fact.

Perconti came to New Castle with Angelo Pedonesi and Sam Traci on February 9. During the altercation with Policeman Robert H. Dukes on February 9 Perconti was in the restaurant of Sam Santucci on Long avenue, where the three men had come to visit.

Mr. Ailey preferred charges against them as accessories after the fact. He now feels that they had nothing to do with the case and in fairness is asking for their release.

STATE CAPITAL, LANSING, Mich., March 24.—"We have had a satisfactory conference this morning. We will re-convene at 3 o'clock."

Governor Frank Murphy made this anouncement at 1:25 p. m. today when his conference with Walter P. Chrysler, chairman of the board of Chrysler Corporation, and John L. Lewis, head of the committee for industrial organization broke up for a luncheon recess.

LANSING, March 24.—Walter P. Chrysler and John L. Lewis went into conference with Governor Frank Murphy here today in a parley called by the governor in an effort to settle the Chrysler automobile strike which has been in progress since March 8.

The conference got under way promptly. Chrysler and Lewis arrived almost simultaneously. They entered the executive offices a few paces apart and neither had any comment to make to newspaper men.

Chrysler was accompanied into the governor's office by K. T. Keller, president of the Chrysler Corporation; B. F. Hutchinson, vice president and chairman of the finance committee; Nicholas Kelly, general counsel and H. H. Ramsey, a New York lawyer for the company.

Lewis went into the executive office alone. Ora Gassaway, a member of the United Mine Workers International board, and Lee Pressman, general counsel for the U. M. W., waited outside and told re-

Three More To Be Put To Death By Soviet Guns

(International News Service)

MOSCOW, March 24.—Three persons were sentenced to death today and four to prison terms ranging from three to eight years in the third mass trial of alleged "Trotskyites" at Novosibirsk. Two were acquitted.

The accused were charged with criminal responsibility for a fire in a kindergarten boarding school in February in which a large number of children were burned to death.

Among the four imprisoned was a matron, who allegedly discovered the fire but fled without arousing the children. She was sentenced to eight years.

The hope of things to bloom again, the hint of buds about to swell, and yet another feature is the story that the Scripture tells. About that scene that Easter morn when angels rolled away, this is the Easter time for me, the weather's fifty one today.

BOY'S SLAYING IS CONFESSED

Chambersburg Case Is Solved

Former Asylum Inmate Admits Killing Eight-Year-Old Boy Police Report

MURDER CHARGE WILL BE LODGED

International News Service Staff

CHAMBERSBURG, March 24—Oscar Shriver, 28-year-old former inmate at a state institution for the feeble-minded and uncle of Floyd Shriver, 8, found strangled to death, had confessed today, state police said, to slaying the schoolboy because "he teased me."

The body of the boy was found near his home here yesterday after he had been missing for more than 18 hours. Floyd Sollenberger, member of a searching party which scoured the area during the night, made the gruesome find near a garage at the Shriver home.

Soon Confesses

Taken into custody by state policeman Carl Hartman and county authorities for questioning, Shriver soon confessed to the slaying, police said. He told police he threw a rope around the boy's neck and tightened it until his body became limp. He then secreted the body beneath a pile of rags in the garage at the Shriver home until about 4 a. m. when he removed it and placed it in the passageway where it was found by Sollenberger, police said.

Authorities described Shriver as of "low mentality" and said he was an inmate at Pennhurst school for feeble-minded for about 19 years. Hartman indicated that a formal charge of murder would be lodged against Shriver today.

An autopsy showed the boy died "by means of compression of the neck, by a cord or rope or some similar means."

Roosevelt will go to Hyde Park and leave congress to stew in its own perspiration in the heat of a Washington summer.

In communication with his lieutenants, before and since leaving Washington, Mr. Roosevelt has made it clear he does not believe it possible to promote orderly, stabilized recovery until the power of the judiciary to thwart the executive and legislative branches of the government is curbed. Once that is accomplished, he does believe it will be possible for the federal government to throw up such controls as will "prevent another 1929."

Resurrect A. A. A. And N. R. A.

The "controls" that the president and his closest advisers have in mind are a resurrection of the principles of the AAA and the NRA, both outlawed by the supreme court, and which gave the federal government some degree of control over hours and wages of labor, as well as prices and business practices.

To one man, the president is reported to have recently remarked with some asperity: "there were no sit-down strikes under the NRA." Which indicates that there is in his mind the reinstitution of a modified NRA, once the court is reinvigorated with new blood of his selection.

Mr. Roosevelt has never repented the creation of the original NRA, although in his message of January 6 he did confess the fault that "it tried to do too much." Also in that message he said that while "the statute of NRA has been outlawed the problems have not; they are still with us."

STATE BUILDING PROGRAM FACING HANDICAPS NOW

will considerably stymie the program in that they have discovered there is not enough relief labor in the necessary skilled class available.

Further, it was learned, certain trade unions have balked when confronted wtih the possibility of working side by side with non-union workers and, in some cases, have indicated their refusal to do so.

The type of work involved in the governor's institutional program, a spokesman told International News Service, calls for an average 30 per cent labor cost, the remaining going to materials and equipment. Of this estimated 30 per cent, the spokesman added, perhaps not more than half would qualify from the relief rolls because of the specialized work entailed.

Senator Gnffey is expected to meet with the president as soon as the chief executive returns from Warm Springs, Ga. He will then ask that the restrictions be removed somewhat so that more of the grant can be spent for non-relief labor. His prospects, however, are none-too-bright in that he has already been told by Col. Horatio Hackett, assistant to PWA Administrator Harold Ickes, that this was hardly possible under the present setup.

will be improved thereby. This is the first lesson in social reform."

"The greatest vigilance is necessary to protect our finest political tradition, the judicial independence of the supreme court."

"The president does not propose to remove the supreme court from the political field, nor does he deny it the right to use its judgment in broad areas closed to the courts of England. But on the ground that it has not used its judgment well would compel it to a different judgment. He has invested a scheme by which he hopes to control the opinions of the court."

The Princeton president said the plan "adroitly appeals to a varied combination of prejudices." But he warned that the greatest of constitutional authorities agreed "there is no liberty if the power of judging be not separated from the legislative and executive powers."

NEW MOVES BY HITLER AND MUSSOLINI GIVE EUROPE BIG CONCERN

afternoon to give final approval to the plan.

Swift major diplomatic moves by Mussolini and Chancellor Hitler involving Spain and Austria left chancellors in London, Paris and other European capitals quaking with the jitters.

Situation At Present

The situation, which has kept diplomatic wires and telephones buzzing, may be summarized as follows:

1—Italian Ambassador Dino Grani informed the non-intervention committee Italy does not intend to withdraw a single Italian soldier from Spain until the civil war ends.

2—Grandi's declaration, which completely surprised and alarmed London, Paris and Moscow, resulted from telephoned instructions from Il Duce, who a few minutes later unleashed a bitter blast against England in a speech at Rome.

3—Mussolini's surprise move followed a telephone conversation between Mussolini and Hitler in which Hitler complained about the recent papal encyclical accusing Germany of violating the Reich-Vatican concordat. Hitler accused Austrian Catholics of being responsible for this.

4—Mussolini postponed his proposed consultation with Austrian Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg and promised to see what influence he could bring to bear on the Vatican in favor of Hitler.

5—Fears were expressed in Paris and London that extreme Fascists may persuade Il Duce to leave Austria to Germany and have Germany leave Spain to Italy.

May Intensify Operations.

6—Mussolini has been urged to intensify Italian operations in Spain.

7—Austrian Nazis, embittered by dismissal of Minister of Public Security Neustadeter, are becoming increasingly restive. Those exiled near Munich are being given a freer hand. Hitler has warned Mussolini Schuschnigg is now dominated by the British and French.

8—The Austrian government, secretly worried, is reported to have given Viehna defense forces orders to stand by over Easter, and units of the Austrian fatherland front are said to be moving quietly up to the south German frontier.

9—The British cabinet is to discuss the situation today. The ministers appear divided, one group annoyed at Anglican interference which inflamed Mussolini, the other opposed to any compromise with Mussolini.

10—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden has requested the British ambassador in Rome to explain to Il Duce that Britain's aim is to bring Europe to peaceful agreements thru a policy of moderation.

Arguments Tuesday

Arguments of the defense and the commonwealth finished Tuesday afternoon. For the defense Attorney J. L. Connell of Cleveland, presented the case to the jury. Like his argument in the Pedonesi it was scholarly, and at times impassioned in the plea for a not guilty verdict.

For the commonwealth Attorney John R. Lamoree made the argument and it was a convincing one. One of the younger practitioners Mr. Lamoree made an appealing argument and it was by all odds the best he has ever done in the Lawrence county courts.

Few spectators were in the court room today. The interest in the Traci case apparently waned after the first day and as a result there was no commotion whatever as Judge Chambers charged the jury.

Sixteen points of law were presented by the defense, twelve of which were affirmed. The other four were not read. One of the points refused and not read asked for a directed verdict of acquittal.

HARRISBURG GETS GRANGE MEETING

Interlaken, N. Y.; E. A. Eckert, of Moscutah, Ill., and Ray W. Gill, of Portland, Ore.

State Master Boak stated that the Pennsylvania State Grange meeting will take place on November 8 and 9, the two days preceding the National Grange meeting. In past years three-day sessions have been held, but the business of the State Grange will be curtailed this year because of the national meeting.

Prior to the meeting of the National Grange, a number of sixth degree meetings will be held in various sections of the state, to prepare candidates for the seventh degree session at the National Grange, giving everyone who wishes to qualify an opportunity to receive this high honor.

The National Grange maintains an office in Washington, D. C., with Fred Brenckman, former secretary of the Pennsylvania State Grange, as legislative representative.

Mr. Boak left today for State College, Pa., in connection with his duties as state master, and expects to put in a busy summer and fall, helping to prepare for the state and national conventions.

SEARCH BABY

(International News Service)

LORDSBURG, N. M.—The thoroughness with which a jailer's wife searched certain members of a gang of seven suspects arrested here in connection with a robbery in Bisbee, Ariz., was credited with a resulting in a confession from Roy Brooks. Of the seven persons held here, one was a tiny baby. The jailer's wife found $1,110 in ten and twenty dollar bills hidden in the baby's diapers.

CHRYSLER MEETS LEWIS IN PARLEY WITH GOVERNOR

porters that if the executives that went inside with Chrysler remained for the conference, Lewis would request that they, too, participate.

James F. Dewey, general labor conciliator, entered the conference room at 11:10 a. m. It was Dewey who conducted preliminary negotiations for the governor to bring Lewis to the conference.

A few minutes before the conference started, Governor Murphy told International News Service that the parley may lead to a series of peace meetings.

"I mean business," he said, with a smile. "I rarely eat breakfast but I had a hearty breakfast this morning and that means I am ready for work.

"I have no idea how long the conference will last. Not until the discussions have started will I know just what the procedure will be.

"If there is a chance of immediate peace I hope to persuade Mr. Chrysler and Mr. Lewis to remain until they have reached a settlement.

"It is possible, however, that this meeting will be the first of a series of conferences."

It was learned that Chrysler and Lewis came to Lansing against their will. They urged the governor to hold the conference in New York or Washington, preferably New York, but Murphy thought the proper place was under the Capitol dome in Lansing.

Lewis entered the conference room in the glare of photographer's flash bulbs. His face was set in grim lines. Chrysler followed, his expression inscrutable.

Lewis and Chrysler would not pose together for the photographers before the conference began. The bushy eye browed strike chieftain paid no attention to the cameramen who surrounded him as he came through the rotunda of the Capitol building. He went directly to the executive suite, his mouth set in a firm line.

Chrysler, on the other hand, was amiable. He smiled for the photographers and joked with reporters —without answering the barrage of questions they shot at him.

Fail To Locate Missing Aviatrix

(International News Service)

LONDON, March 24.—Efforts of 5,000 police and volunteer searchers aided by Royal Air Force planes, to find the missing 72-year-old flying Duchess of Bedford were fruitless today, and authorities sadly began to drag Bedfordshire Lakes for her body.

Hope that she had escaped disaster on a solo flight begun Monday afternoon to survey the floods in the Fenland region gradually faded.

FAME OF OUR ARTISTIC WEALTH

AMBASSADOR GEORGES BONNET of France was undoubtedly in earnest when, in helping formally to open ten French Galleries at the Pennsylvania Museum of Art, he appealed for the loan of some of our "artistic wealth" for the 1937 Paris Exposition.

A surprisingly few years ago the suggestion that the United States lend France our art treasures would have been politely applauded as only a gracious gesture, a suave compliment, but meaning little. Yet comparatively recently, thanks to art patrons such as Morgan, Mellon and Frick, America has become a repository of some of the most notable paintings in the world.

Our collectors continue combing Europe for masterpieces. Leading galleries abroad cling to their treasures, but American money, disparaged vocally but coveted privately, continues to rustle and clink pleasantly to European ears. And through the beneficence of American collectors and our increasing public astuteness in art this country has now come to its esthetic maturity. We have France, home of the Louvre, trying to borrow our paintings. We have Paris, which was staging expositions while we were fighting Indians, asking our aid for her forthcoming spectacle.

This is encouraging resassurance, if we needed such, that America can take the lead in cultural as well as practical things.

HITCH-HIKING GETS HARDER

A feature of American life that has flourished since a lad first asked for a ride on a hay wagon seems to be on the way out. According to a veteran hitch-hiker, who has thumbed his way for some 60,000 miles in 41 states, it is growing harder daily to obtain rides by this method. Speed, he believes, is making hitch-hiking a dying art.

If the wagging thumb and the pleading eye are rendered ineffective, it would seem to be a good thing all around. There would be no more instances in which drivers are robbed, or even slain, by hitch-hikers to whom they are giving rides. And, undoubtedly, more American youths would remain at home.

RECORD SHOWS LIFE BEGINS AT SEVENTY

Age is wounded in the house of its friends and stands bewildered. President Roosevelt calls for younger blood in the Supreme court and declares that "new facts become blurred through old glasses; older men, assuming that the scene is the same as it was in the past, cease to explore or inquire into the future or the present."

Those words have struck home to the heart of the nation, and not old-age pensions nor social security for sunset years can pour any balm upon the hurt.

It is the first time years have clanged like iron gates barring endeavor with an official sign, "Closed to Men of 70."

Let the American men who step jauntily today to hide their hurt glance at just a few of the many Americans whose old-age activities certainly were not of the doze-by-the-fire type.

Do you remember the two Adamses who were Presidents of the United States—John and Quincy? John was doing yeomen service in framing the Massachusetts constitution at 85 and kept his great mental vigor until he died at the age of 91. John Quincy was a power in the House of Represetatives between the ages of 64 and 81.

And then there is that American statesman, philosopher and diplomat, Benjamin Franklin. He lived to be 84 and was consulted even in last days on every important political question in America. He represented this country in France from his 70th to his 79th year, was president of the Executive Council of Pennsylvania through the next three years, and at 81 was a member of the Constitutional convention.

Or you might observe Oliver Wendell Holmes, who was publishing his "Medical Essays" at 74, bringing out "Over the Teacups" and other works between 75 and 80, and contributing to the Atlantic Monthly until he died at the ripe age of 86.

Push back into the World war years and take an eyeful of Clemenceau—elected at 70, in 1911, to the French Senate; whipping up preparedness on the Senate floor and in his fiery newspapers; sounding the alarm of the German menace, battling for supplies and enlistments, armaments and equipment; forging at white heat "the will to victory": forming his "victory Cabinet" at 76, and restoring the dwindling self-confidence of his people.

Germany, of course, has his counterpart in Hindenburg, brought out of retirement at 67 to win the battle of Tannenberg in 1914, and at 78 elected president of the new republic.—Milwaukee Journal.

"Why be polite to women?" John Erskine, the writer, asks. Mr. Erskine might try being impolite, just to see what happens.

The London press is still treating cautiously all matters concerning the great romance, but the news is beginning to leak out that it isn't Edward who is to be crowned early in the Summer.

The visiting diplomats have been informed in the language of diplomacy that, so far as the United States is concerned, the next war, if there is to be one, will be on a cash-and-carry basis.

FACTS ON BRIGHT CHILDREN

Many questions come to me about bright children. Although I should know a great deal about the subject, I do not know nearly so much about bright children as does Dr. Leta Hollingsworth, of Columbia university. Indeed, nobody else in the world has studied so many bright children, so long and so throughly as she has. She has been kind enough to answer some of these questions for me. I regret that her answers cannot be made in full. You can find much more by her on the subject from her articles and books, especially her book, "Gifted Children".

Q. How early can brightness be noticed?

A. "By the time babies are 12 to 18 months old the brightest among them can be found by one who knows just how to go about it, if such a person can have three or four hours to devote to the observation of each child. One of the most significant signs of brightness in a baby is early use of words, both in understanding and speaking....Bright children even walk a little earlier, as a rule."

Q. Are the bright nervous?

A. "By all tests so far applied, bright children prove to be less nervous, as a group, than children generally are."

Q. Are the bright inclined to be puny?

Usually Tall and Heavy.

A. "Investigations have repeatedly shown that very bright children are very likely to be tall and heavy. ....Comparisons of health have proved that a hundred bright children will have a better average of health than a hundred children taken at random, though there will be some sickly individuals in both groups.".

Q. Are the very bright children born in poverty?

A. "Very birght children are usually born to parents in better than average circumstances."

Q. Do the bright "go backward" as they grow older?

A. "The bright child continues to be bright. The bright infant becomes the bright adult, and does not become a dullard (though he may fail to achieve much either in school or in life, for a great variety of reasons)."

Q. Should a bright child be held back in school?

A. "The policy which appears most rational in practice is to provide extra work for the bright, in line with their intellectual interests. This is called enrichment of school work. At the same time it has been found a good plan to combine this enrichment with a moderate degree of rapid progress through school. The longer bright children are studied, the more clearly does it appear that they have far too little to do at school."

All Of Us

EXPERIENCE IN THE NIGHT

Suddenly in the dark heart of the night a man work from sleep. ....In an instant he was wide awake, sharply as though it were the middle of the day.

Something had happened. Something, he was positive, had awakened him. What was it? A sudden noise or a sudden silence?

Had something fallen? Was an intruder in the house? Had a child cried? Had there been an explosion? He lay there waiting and listening and the silence was tremendous....Nowhere in all the black vastness of the night could he detect a sound. Not a nightbird cried. Not a street car rumbled. Not an engine anywhere sounded its mournful whistle. No late traveler raced his engine or honked his horn. No dogs. No cats. No break in the silence, anywhere. No bluster of wind, no creak of a sleeping world, and in that instant it seemed that he alone, of all the millions around him, was awake.

But it was more than nothingness....Above him and all around him he sensed impending doom. The world seemed in suspense, as though at any moment it might crack apart and fly in myriad fragments, flaming and cracking, to the farthest corners of the universe. He was not ill, his head did not ache, no insoluable worries had been afflicting him, no friend or member of his family was in trouble—and yet he lay still and apprehensive beneath this great black canopy of impending doom.

How long he lay there waiting for disintegration he does not know. It may have been seconds or years. It seemed like an eternity....But as suddenly as it came, the horror began to go away. A dog barked, an owl screeched, a clock on a distant tower struck 3, and he was one with a great mass of humanity once more.

It was an uncanny experience, that had happened to him before and would probably happen again. And it had come, he realized, from within himself, from nowhere in the vastness of space. He, was not abnormal or any special victim of terror in the night. He was an average man who had wakened in the dark, felt an inexpressible aloneness—and traveled in a flash to the far reaches of chill space and returned to the familiar warmth of his own bed.

He overlooked the fact, however, that the car in front was parked at the curb, and as a result, wound up in the hoosegow. One of the sad things about drunken drivers is that they don't always run into cars parked at the curb, but smack headon into cars coming in the other direction, and the consequences are far more serious, and sometimes smart lawyers get them acquitted even in those cases.

CALENDAR AID

We would judge, offhand, that about 99 per cent of the people we know remember how many days there are in each month by repeating this rhyme:

"Thirty days have September, April, June and November.

"February has 28 alone, all the rest have 31.

"Excepting leap year—that's the time when February's days are 29."

If you never learned anything else in your childhood, you probably learned that. It's likely you've remembered it, too, for how many times a week are you called upon to recall how many days in June, how long before Christmas, and just how long have we got before we buy wifey's birthday present?

The reason we bring up this childhood rhyme is because a reader has sent in another of the same type. This one, while it doesn't rhyme so well, will give your mind a tip-off as to what day of the week each month begins.

Here is the rhyme, or maybe we'd better just call it a sentence:

"Fill me my thirty sacks; tuck the sugar within for Mrs. Walker."

The first letter in each of the 12 words indicates on which day of the week the corresponding month in 1937 begins. It is then quite easy to work out mentally on which day of the week any date will fall during the year.

For example, the first letter of the first word is "F". The first month is January and since "F" stands for Friday, then January begins on Friday. Look it up and see if that isn't right. Or, take March. The initial of the third word is "M". "M" stands for Monday, and that's right, too.

Memorize that and you'll be twice as smart as the guy who only knows the rhyme about how many days in each month.

TWO STORIES.

"Now, Mary, when you bathe the baby, be sure to use the thermometer to test the water," instructed a visiting nurse.

On a later visit the nurse asked, "Did you use the thermometer?"

"No, ma'am," replied the mother; "I can tell without it. If it's too hot the baby turns red, and if it's too cold he'll turn blue."

A little boy was told by his mother to come to her side as she had some good news for him.

An old lady, who was about to die, told her niece to bury her in her black silk dress but to cut the back out and make herself a dress. "Oh, Aunt Mary," said the niece, "I don't want to do that. I buried your Uncle Charlie without his pants."

Good Taste

Reg. U. S. Pat. Office.

By FRANCINE MARKEL

THE other evening at the home of a friend, the conversation turned to business and how relentlessly most office people must work all day long with little or no time to waste. One of the guests present was an executive whose hours are in constant demand. His complaint was that visitors dash in and surprise him at the wrong time—when he is about to tackle his morning mail, go out to lunch, or late in the afternoon when he is hurriedly signing his mail prior to making a hasty departure for his suburban home.

Let me add a word of warning to those who have this unfortunate habit. If you wish to have a successful visit with such an executive whose hours are limited, telephone him and make an oppointment so that you may find him in the proper frame of mind when you arrive.

If you have no appointment, make your visit either between eleven and twelve after he has had time to go through his mail or between three and four before his time for signing his mail and leaving for the day—perferably the latter interval.

Those who are waiting for him when he arrives in the morning may expect a cold reception and those who make last-minute calls near closing time may likewise expect to be ushered out before the completion of their planned business.

Mystery Stirs Canton.
Recent Crime Outdoes Fiction.
Believe Gangsters Did Killing.

By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Columnist

CANTON, O., March 24.—In this city of 110,000 a mystery story has come to life. It is as if it were directly from a thriller.

A shot in the dark from a shotgun, through a parlor window, killed Mrs. Dueber S. Cable, wife of an excavation contractor.

She had feared death. She had told a friend a few days previously, "Do not sit at night with your shades up, or next to a window." The friend, a woman, had received a mysterious warning message, and had asked Mrs. Cable for advice.

A few nights later Mrs. Cable failed to pull down her shades, and did sit next to a window.

Neighbors thought they heard backfire from an automobile.

The "backfire" was the detonation of a gun.

A few moments later, Mrs. Cable's mother came into the parlor. She saw Mrs. Cable on the floor, and believed she had suffered a hemorrhage.

Mr. Cable was at a party in a Cleveland hotel, 55 miles away. He recently had obtained a large excavating contract in Cleveland.

Miss Ludwig was not at this party. But she had passed two weeks with Cable in Florida during the winter. Cable sent her back home a few days before Mrs. Cable arrived for the annual visit. Then Cable, asserting that he had trouble with his teeth, returned to Canton soon after Mrs. Cable arrived in Florida.

Mrs. Cable died within an hour after being shot. She tried to speak prior to death, but her throat was paralyzed. What would she have said?

KNOWN NOW

It is known now that her husband — and other men of some means — maintained a "love nest" in Akron, 20 miles away, for Miss Theresa Ludwig, 47, divorcee.

But it was a mean sort of a "love nest" — with the rental at merely $45 a month. The furniture was cheap.

And the divorcee is not attractive. Indeed, Mrs. Cable, also middle-aged, as is her husband, was the more attractive of the two.

It seems now as if the "other woman" was more jealous of the wife than the wife was jealous of the "other woman".

It is rumored, too, that Mrs. Cable had refused to divorce the contractor until her 19-year-old daughter and her 16-year-old son were out of college.

OTHER MEN

Canton whispers of the other men who helped to maintain the "love nest"—and had "party girls" there. Police questioned four Canton men and one Cleveland man.

A desperate effort has been made to keep their names secret.

But there are wives who may sue for divorce—then, the names may come out.

TREE HUNGER

He planted deep a maple tree, but he forgot to feed it.
Somewhere he got the notion strange that maples didn't need it.
I had the self-same thought myself
in days when I was younger.
I fancied only man and beast were prey to thirst and hunger.

Time was I bought a tree or two to deck my lawn and garden,
And now I pray my ignorance the Lord above will pardon.
I left them braving wind and rain through seasons unattended.
For when their roots I'd covered deep, I thought my duty ended.

I watched them struggle with despair. I watch them slowly
sicken.
I wondered could there be a way a maple's growth to quicken.
And then I asked a man who knew.
He looked them over sadly:
"Your trees are starving sir!" said he "Tis food they're wanting badly."

Man feeds his dog from day to day and food for birds he'll scatter,
But never thinks to feed his trees—
that's quite a different matter.
So here I pass this hint along for all like me who need it,
If you've a tree you want to raise,
in Spring be sure to feed it.

Today's Yesterdays—Mar. 24, 809 A. D.—Death came to the best known character in the Arabian Nights, Harun Al-Rashid, whose real name would fill five lines of this column. He was only 43 when he died, after 21 years on the throne, but he had acquired an enduring reputation as scholar, poet, patron of arts, and 25th caliph of Islam.

Readers of the Arabian Nights know of Harun's incognito mingling among the lowliest of his subjects in Bagdad, of his efforts to improve their lot. He set a good example for them in religions observance: he prostrated himself 100 times daily, and 10 times he humbly made the pilgrimage to Mecca.

One thing the tale-tellers of the Arabian Nights did not tell about their hero. Harun owed his sucession to the throne to Khalid the Barmecide. He had all the Barmecides executed!

Mar. 24, 1624—The ship Charity arrived at Plymouth, with a bull and three heifers, first cattle imported into the English colonies in America. Swine, goats and chickens came on a following ship. Consequently March 1624 is one of the most important dates in American history—far more so than many that crowd it out of school histories.

At the time numbers of horses and cattle had been introduced into the Spanish colonies in the west which were disregarded by many historians mistaking events in the 13 colonies for the first happenings of their kind in the New World. There were universities, printing presses, highly developed farms, etc., in the present southwestern states long before New England had them.

March 24, 1834—John Wesley Powell was born in Mount Morris, N. Y., son of a Methodist clergyman. The right arm he lost in the battle of Shiloh, did not prevent him from serving through the rest of the War Between the States, and from becoming the intrepid geologist who, 70 years ago this year, embarked on exploration of the Colorado River Valley. He was the first to go through the Grand Canyon, an extraordinary feat that would have set him apart among great American pioneers, even though he had not been the father of the U. S. Geological Survey, the Bureau of American Ethnology and of the vast reclamation service.

Mar. 24, 1841—The steamer President was last seen, three days after it left New York for Liverpool; at some moment thereafter it vanished, become one of the great mysteries of the sea. Aboard was the most fasous English-speaking actor of the time, the first Tyrone Power. He received the then remarkable salary of $750 a week for his appearances in plays written for him and dramatized by himself—"Rory O'More," "The Irish Ambassador," etc.

Mar. 24—Among State Histories: 1853—William R. King, 67, of Alabama, took the oath of office as Vice President of the U. S., in Cuba. He was never in Washington as Vice President. . . 1894—Coxey's Army (of unemployed) began its historic march on Washington, from Massillon, O. . .

DRASTIC

The year 1850 was not so very long ago. There are many living who were born in the Forties. Yet the West was an unknown country in the Forties and the winning of the West for Civilization has been accompanied with the loss of many lives. It was a lawless country and still is in many parts. There have been the Viginlantes and there have been many fierce Judges who attempted to bring order out of chaos.

Among the latter was Judge Meade, alcade of San Jose in the Fifties, and who later became a noted criminal lawyer. He posessed a bloodcurdling idea of justice.

Meade had many hates. Particularly, he hated cigarette smokers and Mexicans. One day a certain Mexican named Gonzales was brought in, charged with stealing a horse. Meade questioned him himself. "Do you smoke cigarettes?"

'Si senor," the prisoner replied.

"Do you roll them, pouring the tobacco slowly into the paper?"

"Si senor."

"Do you then reroll the cigarette, bend it in the middle and while consuming it blow the smoke through your nose?"

"Si."

"Then," thundered the Judge, "on this evidence, I find you guilty . . . of stealing a horse! Constable . . . take this man out and shoot him."

Justices Should Talk In Public

Stewart Thinks Supreme Court Rulers Should Discuss Generalities

MANY INTERESTED IN COURT SYSTEM

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, March 24.—In the early days of the still-pending supreme court fight I ventured the published opinion that the high tribunal is an unpopular body with the press because its personnel is so exceedingly up-stage in its attitude toward newspapermen; so extravagantly averse to any expression of itself in its formal judicial capacity.

I also voiced my surprise at the volume of public interest (the great majority of it anti-New Deal) in President Roosevelt's proposed increase in the august bench's membership, up to a 15 maximum.

A fellow journalist of long experience, who asks not to be identified too closely, writes to me suggesting in the nicest way, that I ought to have known better.

VAST INTEREST

I agree that I underestimated the amount of interest evidently felt by the average citizen in the supreme court's future. I should have thought that, for most folk, the subject was overly technical to create a popular sensation, however much it might concern a smallish group of the intelligensia.

The intelligensia proved to be much larger than I had imagined.

I said so in my original comment.

THEIR ERROR?

But I can't admit that I was wrong as to the mistake the high justices have made in their traditional policy of balking at publicizing themselves, in moderation.

Of course they never could have been expected to indulge in advance discussions of cases pending or likely to come before them. But they could not but have benefited themselves by answering questions relative to the weather, crop prospects and the baseball outlook. Such chat would have made them seem human. They ARE human. In denying it, they do not make themeslves appear super-dignified; they make themselves appear ridiculous.

The other day Justice James C. McReynolds proved it.

Then Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes entered the controversy directly with a sweeping condemnation of President Roosevelt's plan in a letter to Senator Burton K. Wheeler.

STEWART REVIEWS CASE

Let's go back a little.

President Roosevelt recommended the supreme court's rejuvenation, or what will you.

The public's reaction unmistakably was unfavorable.

This unfavorableness greatly worried representatives and senators, who overwhelmingly are pro-administration and yet want to be responsive to the obvious wishes of their constituencies.

As time progressed the presidential plan gained ground. President Roosevelt is a wonder at winning converts, with his evening broadcasts.

If his plan had been put to a test immediately following its enunciation, my guess is that it would have been sat on, on Capitol Hill, without further ceremony.

ADMINISTRATION GAINS

But time went on.

The administration gained strength.

Legislators who, initially were on the fence, began to get down on the administration side of the barrier; considerations of patronage influenced them.

A JUSTICE SPEAKS

All this while the supreme court, chiefly affected, kept its poly-cameral mouth shut.

Too dignified to say anything!

At long last Justice James C. McReynolds spoke a few words the other day—a few words not only FOR but FROM the judiciary.

AIDS?

And his speech, before a college fraternity, materially has boosted the supreme court's chances.

Why? Because he has SAID something.

Now Chief Justice Hughes also has said something. Thus the supreme court itself directly joins the debate—and seems human.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

One of the loveliest parties held here for some time was at the home of Joseph Evans on Friday evening, and given in honor of his grandson, Joe Mitcheltree, to celebrate his 14th birthday anniversary with Miss Gertrude Evans as hostess. The affair was planned as a complete surprise on the honor guest, who had been invited by Miss Dorothy Jean Partch to her home for dinner. Later in the evening on returning Joe found nearly thirty of his friends had gathered to wish him a happy birthday. A very enjoyable evening was spent in a variety of games and music, bingo being the principal diversion. Misses Edna Jane Nottingham, Dollie Abrohamvich, and Henry McClennahan winning the prizes. The Picture Story of CHRIST'S LAST DAYS

The glorious story of Easter that has lived two thousand years is told in a different way. Pictures taken from the famous French movie, "Golgotha", give a vivid portrayal of the life of Christ during the days preceding his crucifixion. See the betrayal of Jesus . . . his trial . . . the mockery and torment administered by the Roman soldiers . . . the crucifixion . . . the placing of his body in the tomb and other dramatic pictures that will make this story live anew.

"NEVER HEARD A GRUMBLE!"

"I've been a telephone man for twenty-six years. Sure I like it. This gang of cable-splicers who work for me are a great bunch of fellows. I've worked with them on some pretty tough jobs and they always come through. I've called 'em out of bed to go out in a blizzard for emergency work and never heard a grumble. Most of them just say, 'I'll be there!' "

A modern telephone cable, little larger than a man's wrist, contains as many as 3636 wires! The rapid development of cable lines, replacing open wire, has done much to reduce service interruptions to a minimum. But this is only one of many scientific advancements recently made in telephony. Today, by telephone, you can reach almost anyone—anywhere—at any time—quickly, easily and at moderate cost. Number please?

BELL TELEPHONE CO. OF PENNSYLVANIA

THIS STATE OF PENNSYLVANIA

CONDITIONS CHANGE

Do you know that it is quite interesting to note the general changes that take place in the average community within a generation?

Taking Middlebury, Tioga county, in a remote section of the state, as an example, these facts come to light: Before the railroad was built through this section, a plank road was in existence between Welsboro and Tioga. This plank highway was a toll road.

The next step in the travel evolution was the operation of the first pasesnger trains on May 2, 1871. At that time two hotels, The John Starkey Hotel and the Potter Hotel, were doing a good business at what is now Middlebury Center post office. The town became a shipping point for farm produce. Several large storage buildings were erected.

Worst Calamity In Africa Is To Be Born Twin

African Natives Superstitious, Believe Twins Will Cause Parents Death

(International News Service)

BOSTON.—Found—Africa's worst calamity!

From Mt. Silinda, Southern Rhodesia, in the Dark Continent, Mrs. Elizabeth Williams Curtis, stationed there with her husband, Samuel J. Curtis, principal of a school under the American Board of Foreign Missions writes:

"The worst thing you can do in Africa is be born a twin. If you are a boy twin, the African believes the father will die, and if a girl twin, that the mother will pass on. Since there is now a law against killing twins, many are brought to the mission a short time after they have been born."

It gets lonesome in far-off Africa for missionaries and their families even if they can say, as Mrs. Curtis does:

"I have carnations out of doors all the year round."

Warm Winter Hits Boy Swimmer

(International News Service)

KILLINGLY, Conn.—The mild New England winter this year has not only been a disappointment to skating-minded youngsters but it has also cramped the style of Joseph Norton, an all-year-round swimmer.

Joe said he had been in swimming only a few times this winter because "the water is too warm—without at least a little bit of ice around it."

"I'm used to going out and cutting myself a hole in the ice and taking a dip," he said. "Without the ice it isn't much fun."

JUST ONE SHORT

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH.—Eleven tickets to a performance of the musical comedy "On Your Toes" were mailed from Pittsburgh to a woman in Wilson, Pa. When the envelope arrived, it contained only 10 tickets. Postal inspectors arrested John W. Stotlemeyer, 23, a substitute postal clerk, after he entered the theater and handed one of the tickets to the doorman.

HEN ADOPTS ORPHAN POLICE PUPS

Gun Toting Student Turns Up In Alaska

(International News Service)

PORTLAND, Ore.—Oregon has surrendered her reputation as a wild and wooly place to live in favor of Alaska, according to George J. Clauss, juvenile court officer.

Clauss turned over to police a gun which he took from a 16-year-old high school pupil who formerly lived in Alaska. High school officials warned the youth several times about carrying a gun, Clauss said, but the boy declared he had carried a gun to school in Alaska and he didn't "see anything wrong with it."

The juvenile officer said he took the boy's gun, a .22 caliber pistol, because the youth's grandmother refused to take any action, declaring she didn't see any reason for "such a fuss over a little thing like taking a gun to school."

New Military Airplanes To Cost $4,300,000

(International News Service)

BALTIMORE, March 24.—A contract for construction of 35 military airplanes costing a total of $4,300,000 has been received by his firm from the Argentinian government, Glenn L. Martin, head of one of the nation's largest aircraft manufacturing plants, announced today.

Martin, revealing his company has $12,500,000 worth of unfilled orders on its books, said the Argentinian planes would probably be ready for delivery late this year.

'Kick Me' Latest Sticker Vogue

(International News Service)

PORTLAND—Indications here today pointed toward one of two things taking place in the immediate future. They were:

1. (Best Bet)—A boom in the sale of soft pillows; or,

2. (Not so good)—A big reduction in automobile accidents.

The reason for so drastic a prophecy lies in the fact that a new organization, to be known as "Kick Me," has been formed among Portland business men. Each member will post a "Kick Me" sticker on the rear window of his automobile, and (to the delight of pillow vendors) pledges himself to stand for a kick if found driving even a fraction of a mile beyond speed limits.

Made for the Maharajah of Baroda, one of the largest carpets ever woven in Scotland has just traveled 7,500 miles from Glasgow to India. It was packed in a huge tin tube, and is intended to cover the floor of the large hall in the Maharajah's palace. It covers more than 100 square yards.

He is called the "nation's No. 1 traffic officer."

'Built In Safety" Highways Urged

(International News Service)

SACRAMENTO, Cal.—A drive for "built-in-safety" for California's vast network of highways today was launched by state motor clubs in their recommendations for future road construction work.

Their program planned to reduce the huge number of accidents that annually take more lives here than in any other state, included recommendations for divided highways with one-way traffic, flattening of hill crests for increased visibility, increased use of reflectorized markers, more efficient control of metropolitan signal systems and gradual elimination of grade crossings.

Fifteen nails, swallowed during play at school, were found in the stomach of nine-year-old Peter Dennison of Hull, England.

Some women who have always had the hardest time are relieved by Midol.

Midol brings quick relief which usually lasts for hours. Its principal ingredient has often been prescribed by specialists.

Tax Collection Bill Story Given House Committee

Both Sides Argue Bill That Would Place Collections In Hands Of County Treasurers

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, March 24.—Proponents of the Moomaw-Moran bill who termed Pennsylvania's present tax collection system a "legalized racket" and opponents who charged the measure would increase collection costs left their views today with the house municipal corporations committee.

Speakers against the move to place all tax collections in the hands of county treasurers with salary instead of fee payments charged the change would strike at the heart of home rule and "provide a fertile field for political manipulation". Appointment of deputy tax collectors, banks, clerks and constables, they added, would "greatly increase the cost of the separate taxing units."

"I consider the provisions to be entirely practical and in keeping with sound business and governmental practices—proven so beyond doubt," said Dr. W. Brooke Graves, Temple University, speaking for the bill. Only tax collectors—"who profit from this archaic system"—have opposed the recommended changes, he declared.

NEW LIGHT BIBLE CLASS

The New Light Bible class had a weekly meeting Tuesday at 8 p. m., 211 Green street. After the opening exercises a business period was conducted and a membership committee organized with Mrs. M. C. Fuller as chairman.

The report of the N. L. sick committee was given by Mrs. Rosa Anderson and it was revealed that two members, Mrs. Cora Duffin and Lee Morrison are ill. It was suggested and approved that cards of encouragement be sent to them.

Due to the unavoidable absence of the general secretary, Miss Catherine Fitzhugh, Ray L. McHenry acted as substitute. The class expressed regret that Miss Fitzhugh must depart on a mission of serious illness to New York.

The lesson was on the entire Fifth Chapter of Genesis. The discussion was complete and most interesting. Many spiritual points were brought out.

Acquit McGraw At West Chester

Jury Out Only One Hour In "Boxing Glove Slaying" Death Trial

(International News Service)

WEST CHESTER, Pa., March 24.—After deliberating one hour, a jury of eight men and four women today acquitted William R. McGraw, of either second degree murder or voluntary manslaughter in connection with the death of 15-year-old Eugene Statler, an inmate of the Pennhurst state school for feeble minded boys.

A crowded courtroom greeted the decision with cheers, and Judge Ernest Harvey, who presided over the so-called "boxing glove slaying" trial in the Chester county criminal court, immediately released the defendant.

The commonwealth charged McGraw, a former attendant at the school, put on boxing gloves and beat Statler last Dcember in an effort to get the boy to confess the theft of 95 cents. Statler was fatally injured, the prosecutor contended, when his head struck the floor as he fell beneath the weight of a blow. The commonwealth has asked for a verdict of either second degree murder or voluntary manslaughter.

The rural schools will start closing during the latter part of April where an eight-month term is observed.

with rough men. Canton never has understood him.

Three or four years ago he began to build a "castle" on Cable lake, four miles out from Canton. (In reality, it is an ordinary house, but in the heightened imagination of Cantonians it now is a "castle".)

The depression deepened. Cable stopped construction.

It is a lonely spot. It is whispered that Mrs. Cable feared to live there. And persons speak of it in hushed tones, as if ghosts walk its uncompleted ramparts.

Police believe the gun that killed Mrs. Cable is at the bottom of this lake, which is of good size, and deep. It is artificial, built by Cable.

GANGSTERS

From bits of evidence gathered here and there, it is believed that gangsters killed Mrs. Cable, the kind who are hired. They drove round and round the block in their car, then made an expert job of it, and sped on to the big-city haunts whence they came.

Such is the surmise.

But who would be an enemy of Mrs. Cable's?

LIE DETECTOR

Cable and Miss Ludwig were detained in Canton for questioning.

A lie detector was used on Cable. He joked about it afterwards.

He remarked: "It showed truth when I lied on purpose and lies when I was telling the truth."

Authorities placed little faith in it.

In the meantime, the public is placing little faith in anything as long as authorities make a mystery of the "other men" concerning whom everybody talks.

DON'T SCRATCH, SOOTHE THE IRRITATION

Quick relief from the maddening itch of eczema, psoriasis, poison ivy, and irritation about the rectum or personal parts is obtained by applying an ointment called Resinol. Leave it on over night. It lessens the desire to scratch, and eases the irritation.

The soothing effect of Resinol takes the sting out of the irritated parts and makes you comfortable. The skin heals sooner, too, with the help of Resinol.

The oily base of Resinol Ointment is ideal for penetrating the outer layers of the skin and securing deeper action. Bathing the affected parts first with Resinol Soap hastens the effectiveness of Resinol Ointment. Many nurses suggest and use Resinol—why don't you try it?

HOW I KNOW IT IS EASTER

I know that Easter Day is drawing nigh,
For I saw a lady with a strip of palm go walking by;
And children are heard to plead and beg
For a chocolate bunny and a basket of eggs;
And their eyes seem to sparkle and gleam
As they bite into this chocolate cream;
And every place I happen to look or go
Reminds me of a story we all should know;
And all the shop windows seem to say—
Ladies stop in and see our display
Of suits and hats, all colors and shades;
And we'll make you more lovely, for the Easter parade.
Then in all our finery, we know it is Easter morn,
And think of one who was crowned with a wreath of thorns.

Commonwealth Will Try To Send Mrs. Elizabeth Sample To Chair For Slaying

(International News Service)

ERIE, Pa., March 24.—The last spoken words of John Hogan, 42, as he lay dying after being shot by his alleged paramour, Mrs. Elizabeth Sample, 42, may be used by the commonwealth in its efforts to send Mrs. Sample to the electric chair, it was intimated today.

Just before he died, Dr. Delmar Palmer testified at the hearing, Hogan said Mrs. Sample had shouted: "If I can't have you no one else can." The shooting followed.

The only eye-witness to the shooting, Mrs. Lucille Irwin, 42-year-old divorcee, who was with Hogan when Mrs. Sample, the housekeeper, walked into his home, did not appear at the hearing before Alderman T. C. Conyngham.

Mrs. Sample was held without bail for the next term of court. She seemed highly composed at the hearing.

Strike Tension Lessening Some In Detroit Area

Police Return To Eight-Hour Shifts—Alumium Plants Strike Is Settled

(International News Service)

DETROIT, March 24.—Strike tension lessened somewhat today as Detroit's 3,700 policemen, who had been on 12-hour duty for the past week, were returned to eight-hour shifts.

Another bright spot was the settlement of the dispute which had closed the six plants of the Bohn Aluminum plant here. Reopening of the plants, under an agreement signed by the management with the United Auto Workers union, will send 3,500 men back to work. The company agreed to a 55 cent an hour wage scale for women and 65 cents an hour for men, and recognition of the law.

Cost Of Living Questions Are Being Answered

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, March 24.—State employes are filling out questionsaires giving an accounting of their cost of living.

A committee, appointed by Gov. George H. Earle, to investigate living and housing conditions of state employes issued the questionaires. The committee is expected to make recommendations as to possible changes in the salary setup.

"We have received many reports that state employes are living under bad sanitary conditions and that their living costs are too high", said Insurance Commissioner Owen B. Hunt, chairman of the committee. "We are going to get the fullest information on these points and then compare the average cost of living for the state workers in the various income groups with that of persons in private employ."

"House Of Magic" At Senior High

Latest Discoveries In Field Of Science Displayed To High High School Students

Practical applications of the many marvelous discoveries and inventions in the field of electricity and science were demonstrated to an audience of over 1,000 in the senior high school auditorium this morning. H. D. Middel, lecturer from the General Electric company, put on a seemingly magical performance which was one of the most outstanding and interesting programs ever presented at the school.

Color lighting as used in theatres and highway lighting were among the many new demonstrations. Every member of the science department of the school was in attendance, the show having been brought to New Castle through the efforts of William A. Margraf, head of the science department. Since viewing this program at the World's Fair in Chicago two years ago, Mr. Margraf has been making an endeavor to bring it to New Castle.

Sound was sent across the stage aboard a light wave and reproduced through the aid of a photo electric cell, through a speaker.

The light of the fire-fly was produced by Middel during the demonstration through the use of chemicals. Many different types of light marvels were explained and demonstrated. Various qualities and intensity of musical sounds was shown through the use of the ascillograph.

Buenos Aires Child Kidnaper Is Found Dead

Suspect Apparently Strangled Himself With Belt In His Jail Cell

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

BUENOS AIRES, March 24.—Jose Gancedo, the dull-witted tramp arrested a month ago in connection with the kidnap-murder of two-year-old Eugenio Pereyra Iraola, today was found dead in his cell in Dolores jail, apparently a suicide.

The suspect had strangled himself with his cloth belt, police indicated.

The baby, son of a rich rancher in the Mar Del Plato section, was found in a pig-sty five days after his disappearance in a sensational rivaling America's Lindbergh kidnaping.

Gancedo, who had once worked on the Pereyra Iraola rancho, signed a confession, but later repudiated it in the presence of reporters.

Democratic Lines Are Again Solidified

Party Leaders Have Titanic Struggle Over Taxation On Public Utility Real Estate

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, March 24—Democratic lines in the house resumed their solid phalanx today after a titanic struggle of factional leaders over the taxation of public utility real estate.

The cause of the dispute, the Holland (Allegheny) bill permitting municipalities to tax such realty holdings, was slated for apparently harmonious final approval. But beneath the placid surface of the legislature individual Democrats were concealing pleasure or irritation, depending upon whether they were alligned with secretary of the commonwealth David L. Lawrence or secretary of revenue John B. Kelly.

In the first major legislative test between the Allegheny and Philadelphia leaders of the party, Lawrence scored a narrow but convincing victory. At the cost of a two-hour caucus wrangle, the Democratic state chairman had bound the party's house majority to act favorably upon the Holland bill. A vote of 74 to 71, checked by roll call and verified before opponents conceded defeat, insured that the Democrats would vote as a unit in support of the measure.

Bound by the caucus action, Philadelphia Democrats joined the western Pennsylvania members of the party to overwhelm efforts to amend or sidetrack the bill when it reached the floor of the house.

Unemployment In Sweden Drops Off

(International News Service)

STOCKHOLM—Unemployment in Sweden continues to decline, official figures indicate. On January 1, this year there were only 31,000 persons out of work in all Sweden as compared to nearly 58,000 one year earlier. The latest unemployment report of the Swedish Trades Unions was 11.9 per cent of the membership against 14.9 per cent for the corresponding period in 1935. The gross expenditure of the Government Unemployment Committee in 1936 amounted to 43,140,000 kronor which means a decrease in comparison with 1935 of not less than 25,640,000 kronor.

Army Maneuvers To Be Held In August

(International News Service)

PORTLAND, Ore.—Regular army guardsmen from five western states will gather 14,000 strong at Fort Lewis, Washington, next August as part of the Fourth Army maneuvers.

The Washington concentration will be only one of four similar Fourth Army movements west of the Mississippi. It will be commanded by Major General George S. Simmonds, commander of the ninth corps area in San Francisco. The other concentrations will be held at Fort Riley, Kansas; Camp Ripley, Minn., and San Luis Opispo, California.

Announcement of the maneuvers was made by Major General George A. White, commanding general of the 41st division, following a meeting with his staff here.

California Crop Reduced By Frost

(International News Service)

SACRAMENTO, Cal.—The "most serious freeze that California has experienced since 1913" brought forecasts the 1937 citrus fruit crop would be reduced almost 12,000,000 boxes below last season's shipments.

Last season's total interstate shipment was 33,049,000 boxes of oranges, 2,267,000 boxes of grapefruit and 7,787,000 boxes of lemons. Predictions were that 24,432,000 boxes of oranges, 1,287,000 of grapefruit and 5,832,000 of lemons would to shipped this year.

Showdown Today In Coal Parley

Operators And Miners Meet Again To Discuss Wages, Four-Day Recess

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, March 24.—A showdown was expected today when the sub-committee of the United Mine Workers of America and the Appalachian soft coal operators meet to negotiate a wage and hour contract after a recess of four days.

The scale committees of both the operators and the union—consisting of 300 in all—have been summoned for a joint conference tomorrow. When the parties adjourned last Friday, both sides expressed the hope that a contract might be drafted at today's session, to be presented to the conference for ratification Thursday.

Since then John L. Lewis, international president, who has been almost single-handedly directing the union's fight for a new contract based on a 30-hour week, increased wages, and a guarantee of 200 working days a year, has been called to Michigan for a peace parley over the auto strike.

Schools Here Keep Gas Leakage Watch

Ligo Reports Checks Are Made Regularly To Eliminate Hazards

Careful checks are made regularly to prevent gas leakage in New Castle's public school buildings, S. G. Ligo, superintendent of buildings, grounds and equipments for the school district, assured The News today.

Mr. Ligo reported that "constant watch" is kept for conditions that might lead to anything in the nature of the tragic New London, Texas, school disaster of last week.

Governor George H. Earle yesterday asked school districts throughout the state to make a new check of hazards that may exist.

"Gas is no longer used for heating any of the buildings," said Mr. Ligo. "It is used exclusively for heating water for showers and is employed for cooking in cafeterias and domestic science departments."

Butlers' Ball Snooty Event

Even Servants Can Put On The Dog For Sweet Charity McIntyre Finds

ENTERTAINERS HAVE BUGABOOS

By O. O. MINTYRE

NEW YORK, March 24.—One of Manhattan's unique annual charities is the Butlers' Ball, held in one of the large hotels every winter. Here the pick of the gentlemen's gentlemen and their ladies exploit the social graces with which they are so familiar in the roles of Jeeveses.

O. O. McIntyre

There is nothing of the "servant look" about this gathering. Many are the haughty English type to be seen swinging out of their London clubs after their post-theatre Scotch and soda. Some come in the limousines of their employers and all are top hatted, white tied.

They are on the highly trained staffs at the homes of the Astors, Vanderbilts, Morgans and such. Boxes are bought by the most opulent and the class arrangement has the same regimentation of the Diamond Horse Shoe at the opera. The most important butlers in the most important boxes.

Many butlers' wives are trained ladies' maids and know as much about style as a Peggy Hoyt or Mrs. Harrison Williams. And their manners are impeccable. Sometimes employers drop in during the evening to have a look-see. The receipts are turned over to a hospital social service.

East 55th street is the latest thoroughfare to go all cafe in the manner of West 53rd, running off the avenue. The bell-wether was John Perona's successful El Morocco. And so far about 20 others have lodged in the street. Some of the facades suggest a moving picture street in the Hollywood studios—a mimic pagoda, a country store, a dock pier and so on. Incidentally, Barney Gallant is making another bid for the night crowds with a new salon in University Place.

Putting on the Ritz at a Harlem shoe shine parlor: "Pedal extremites artistically illuminated— 10 cents."

Public entertainers have their audience bugaboos. When they know certain people are out front they jet the jitters. Helen Morgan is all atwitch if her favorite actor, George Arliss, happens to be among the chair holders. Once she had to stop and leave the stage. Even such an old timer as Ed Wynn gets really fluttery when his son is out front. Nora Bayes once held a scene five minutes when she learned that two of her ex husbands were in the front rows. Katharine Hepburn is twittery about all critics and gives a smoother performance without them. Mary Eaton always gave an off performance if Ziegfeld was in the theatre. Raymond Hitchcock was tongue-tied with Erlanger in the house. And so on.

Memories: The whirr of the mowing machine wafted through the gnarled old apple orchard on a drowsy afternoon. The aroma from the vegetable garden after a sudden shower. The smell of the red sealing wax for the mason jars at canning time, going barefoot through the jimson weed patch. Old Ring's comforting bark in the middle of the stormy night. Wheat straw under the rag carpet. The mince meat bucket where the yellow sugar was kept. The flock of geese waddling down the dusty lane of mornings. Chopping pumpkins with the corn knife for the cows on frosty mornings. Blackbirds, with red splotches, following the plow.

Also: The jangle of iron trace chains. The innocence of a wobbly baby calf. Games like marbles, top spinning, jacks and mumbly peg which marked the seasons. Ten-gallon jars of apple butter. The coffee mill nailed to the kitchen wall. The big catfish that lived in the cistern. The cluck of fat hens at feeding time. Sassafras tea. The old smoke house door with leather hinges that never had a lock. The old willow chair that crept to the porch edge as you rocked.

Peter Arno, who once represented the gay Lothario about town, at least in public thought, has gone fireside. Debonaire, well tailored, handsome and at 33 venomously cynical. But now good-bye to all that! He is still a rebel at conventions, but the bright spots see him little since his recent marriage. He has done much to deflate the stuffed shirt, the dried up dotard and the heavy-bosomed dowager with his limning lampoons. He also things New York 80 percent phoney. Arno goes to work about 4 p. m. and sometimes not until after the theatre. His studio, said to be the topsy-turviest in town, occupies an entire floor in the East 50's. All his drawings are with charcoal.

One of those giant mastiffs startled the gee whizzes out of a Wallace Beery-looking man waiting for his bus near our corner last night by a friendly lick of the hand, en passant. When the bus waiter looked down and saw the enormous pooch he did a standing jump to one side and jittered: "Shut that dog off from licking or I'll policeman for a cop, if you could."

Elks Launch Drive For '38 Convention

Mail Out First Of Booster Letters To 119 Lodges In State

To 119 Elks lodges throughout Pennsylvania today had been mailed special letters asking those lodges "favorable consideration" of the New Castle lodge's effort to bring the 1938 Pennsylvania State Elks association to New Castle. The convention would take place late in the summer.

The letter, signed by J. W. Staudinger, chairman of the lodge's executive committee assigned to handle convention promotion, is the first of a series of letters to be sent all over the state.

Today the Elks here announced that the Junior Chamber of Commerce had pledged its full support to the convention movement. The lodge was provided with scores of junior chamber civic pamphlets for insertion in their first letter.

"We'll keep boosting the 1938 convention from now on," Mr. Staudinger said. "We expect to get it."

J. Dewey Seevers is still working on the idea of getting a pardon from the Western Penitentiary, where he is serving two sentences of life imprisonment for the murder of Estella Seevers, his wife, and Catherine Rodgers.

On Monday his case was before the state supreme court on an appeal from the verdict in his last conviction. Attorney Leroy K Donaldson represented the district attorney at the hearing, but no action was had because of the fact that Seevers' paper book was not ready.

Seevers has engaged two Pittsburgh attorneys to represent him, but apparently had not sufficient money to present the paper book necessary. Justice Kephart ruled that while they had a right to strike off the appeal, they would hold the case over until the October session when he could again appear. His reasons were that Seevers was in the penitentiary, that he could not get out in that time and the court was willing to concede a point.

The appeal to the supreme court is in reality just another preparatory step towards asking for a pardon. It will likely be refused which will finally dispose of the case. Then a petition for a pardon in both cases can be presented, the first conviction having previously been appealed and refused.

In an opinion handed down by Judge W. Walter Braham, a motion of the defendant to strike off a judgment is refused and the defendants are permitted to open an action to open judgment. The decision is in the case of J. Clyde Gilfillan against Philip Stack, Ethel M. Ludwig and Mary E. Price, executrices in the estate of the late Emily K. Price, executrices in the estate of the late Emily K. Pirce. The original action concerned a judgment note given by the Ideal Concrete Products Company by Philip Stack. Emily K. Price was at one time a partner in the business. The executrices asked that the judgment be stricken off because the note had not been signed by Emily K. Price.

Paul M. Reilley has filed a libel in divorce from his wife, alleging desertion. They were married on December 31, 1927.

County Commissioner Joseph Hannon is home again on the sick list. His health during the past winter has been none too good but his friends are hoping that the spring sunshine will restore him to health.

In spite of the spring weather the squirrels on the court house lawn are still burying nuts. The lawn is underlaid with a layer of peanuts the furry scamps have buried. Apparently they haven't yet got the idea that their antics softens up the hearts of the court house attaches and they can get their feed every day of the year without storing it.

Mother Of Local Resident Is 101 Years Old Tuesday

Mrs. Martha Boone quietly celebrated her 101st birthday on Tuesday at her home in Winchester, Ky., and among the messages of good wishes and affection she received was one from her son, Walter G. Boone, 67 years of age, of 210 Croton avenue.

The local man and his mother are direct descendants of Daniel Boone, famous Kentucky pioneer, explorer and Indian fighter, a heritage of which they may well be proud.

Mrs. Boone, having been born a year before Queen Victoria began her reign and ten years before the war between the United States and Mexico, has herself lived through some of the most historic pages of American history.

A movement has started in the Irish Free State to make the new Irish Christian Front a political party to oppose President de Valera as well as communism.

Ask Impeachment Of Justice Maxey

International News Service Staff

HARRISBURG, March 24.—In Gov. George H. Earle's hands today were demands from the cooperative legislative board of the four transportation brotherhoods of Pennsylvania that Supreme Court Justice George W. Maxey be impeached.

Justice Maxey, who directed the acquittal of State Policeman Anthony Sanute in the second "third degree" murder trial, was accused of being "unjudicial" in his action and held to be "unfit and unworthy to sit as a justice of Pennsylvania's judicial tribunal."

The resolution sent the governor was signed by William A. Major, chairman of the Order of Railway Conductors; B. G. Winegarden, chairman of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers; James Fox, chairman of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, and G. B. Rowand, chairman of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

LARGE DEMONSTRATION IS STAGED IN DETROIT

Auto Workers Have Meeting

Addresses Made At Mass Meeting In Cadillac Square Late Tuesday

FIRST VIOLENCE REPORT IS MADE

(International News Service)

DETROIT, March 24. — The threat of new violence hung over this strike-torn city today after union leaders threatened at a mass meeting of 60,000 auto workers and their sympathizers in Cadillac Square late yesterday to form more squads of their so-called "minute men's brigade".

Police believed, however, that there would be a truce on the auto-strike front here, where 100,000 are out of work, until conclusion of the "peace parley" between Gov. Frank Murphy, Walter P. Chrysler and John L. Lewis, CIO chief, at the state capitol in Lansing today.

First violence in the Chrysler strike came shortly before thousands of workers converged spectacularly on Cadillac Square late yesterday afternoon to stage a big demonstration in protest of police raids on "captive" factories and stores once held by sit-downers.

Addresses Ford.

Homer Martin, United Automobile Workers Union president, in addressing the rally stated that Henry Ford could not block the unionization drive in the auto industry.

"Henry, you can't stop the labor movement," Martin said in a speech, "the automobile workers of this city and this nation are going to organize. The best thing for you to do, Henry, is to get ready to do business with the organized workers."

Union Organizer Richard T. Frankensteen told the milling, shouting throngs that the union should organize more "minute men's brigade" squads to be held in readiness to aid sit-down strikers in plants now held in event police should raid them.

Disclaims Any Part.

The union, however, disclaimed any part in the first outbreak in the Chrysler strike yesterday when a "flying squadron" of between 50 and 100 union men raided a hall in suburban Van Dyke village and broke up a meeting of 4,000 non-union workers.

State Police Captain Don Leonard, who later investigated the clash, said the raiders swung clubs and blackjacks on the non-unionists. He stated he was told a number of persons had suffered minor injuries but he could not learn their names. He explained the meeting was being held by non-striking Chrysler employes to adopt resolutions to ask the company to put them back to work.

Estimates Differ On Crowd.

Meantime, union leaders in Detroit claimed their rally in Cadillac Square, on which both the city hall and county courthouse front, was a "huge success" yesterday. Martin, UAW president, estimated the crowd at between 150,000 and 200,000, but Police Superintendent Fred Frahm said the throng numbered about 60,000.

The two-block square area in the square was packed solid with humanity, including many women and children. More than 1,000 police were at the scene, standing three deep on the fringe of the crowd.

Train Hits Auto; Two Are Killed

AKRON, O., March 24.—Two men were killed late Tuesday when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by a Wheeling & Lake Erie freight train at the suburban Mogadore crossing.

The dead were identified as Elex Radish, 54, of Mogadore, a Goodyear Rubber & Tire Co. employe, and Dan Kerchanski, 30, of 1042 Bank street, Akron, a Mogadore sewer pipe worker.

Radish died almost immediately. Kerchanski died a few minutes after entering City hospital here.

Witnesses say Kerchanski, the driver, apparently thought the caution lights and bell warned of another freight which had just cleared the crossing on a side track. He drove onto the main track and the train crashed into the car, which was hurled some 30 feet.

Geneva Debaters Back Home After Eastern Invasion

Lose One Of Few Decision Contests With St. Francis College While Away

BEAVER FALLS, March 24.—The two boys' debating teams of Geneva College are home from a recent 1700-mile eastern trip on which they debated with teams from seven different colleges and visited many points of interest, including New York City and Washington, D. C., in each of which places they spent a week-end during the 14 days they were absent. Six of the seven debates, all of which were on the wage question, were non-decision contests and the other at St. Francis College, which they lost, being one of the very few lost by them during the entire season. The colleges, in addition to St. Francis, at which debates were held on their trip, were Bucknell, Susquehanna, Villanova, Shippensburg, Lebanon Valley and Elizabethtown, all in Pennsylvania. Herman Roney, of Beaver Falls, and Paul Graham, of Ambridge, supported the affirmative of the question debated, and Gerson S. Schaffel, of New Brighton, and Saul H. Dizenfeld, of Ambridge, the negative.

The girls' teams, which tied with Houghton College for first place in the tournament at Slippery Rock Saturday of last week, consists of the Misses Peggy Emler, of Donora; Ethel Park, of Syracuse, N. Y., and Henrietta M. Ulatoski, of Aliquippa, assisted by Jack Spangler, of New Brighton, won six out of the eight contests in which they were engaged with teams from a half dozen different colleges.

There are debates yet to be held the first week in April between Geneva on the one hand and Bucknell and Susquehanna on the other, and also between Geneva and Waynesburg. These will be participated in by the boys' teams. The first two will be on the Geneva campus and the last at Waynesburg.

In all the four Geneva teams will this year have been participants in debates with teams of between 50 and 60 colleges, winning the very great majority of all decision contests. A dinner is being planned for the debaters and their efficient coach, Mrs. John Madory, during the month of April.

ENJOY TEA

Bessemer Girl Scouts held a St. Patrick's tea in the Sunday school room of the First Presbyterian church, Wednesday, March 17. The room was beautifully decorated in green and white, in keeping with St. Patrick's Day. Candles and spring flowers carried out this theme, and added to the attractiveness of the tea table, where Miss Gardner and Miss Throop poured. Each scout had invited guests and had arranged her own table at which she was hostess. Miss Eleanor Le Fevre, the scout executive from New Castle, was a special guest of honor. Miriam Moses acted as mistress of ceremonies, introducing the following program at intervals during the tea:

Piano solo—Betty Hedegore.

Piano duet—June Weitz and Winifred Summers.

Piano solo—Doris Campbell.

Group singing—Led by Virginia Carr.

Solo—"Did Your Mother Come from Ireland", "Trust In Me."—Louis Chaddock.

One act play, "Mrs. Gadabout's Busy Day"—Miriam Moses, Lois Chaddock and June Rowe.

Song by the scouts.

The evening was impressively climaxed when the scouts formed a horseshoe formation and Miss Le Fevre conducted an investiture service, presenting Helen Benson, Dorothy Masson, Jenny Sgaraglino, and Lucille Johnson with their tenderfoot pins. After singing "Taps", the girls presented Miss Le Fevre with a bouquet of spring flowers.

Scribe, June Weitz.

SEVEN CARS OF PENNSY TRAIN ARE DERAILED

(International News Service)

MORRISVILLE, Pa., March 24.—Seven cars of the 11 car train No. 112, a Pennsylvania railroad flyer from the south, were derailed here today, scattering debris over three tracks of the main line of the Philadelphia to New York division.

Four of the seven cars that jumped the rails were passenger coaches, the other three were baggage cars.

None of the passengers was injured, railroad authorities at Philadelphia reported.

In the Southern hemisphere midsummer comes at Christmas, and mid-winter at the end of June.

Oil production in Germany has failed to increase in the last year despite drilling activity, and fear is expressed by experts that maximum development of the country's oil resources may have been reached.

AROUND CITY HALL

Operators of motor cars who persist in speeding their machines without respect to the rights of others are finding themselves victims of the law a number of arrests having been made and indications are that spring having arrived cruiser cars will be operated at different times of the day and night in the hope of officers nabbing violators. Some have been arrested for speeding and others for reckless driving. Whenever a person is arrested and convicted of reckless driving it is almost certain that he may be asked to appear before the state board to explain why he should not be published for his failure to operate an auto sanely.

Dame Spring having been ushered in Owen Fox, the city forester will have plenty of work to do and one of his main desires is that people not walk over the grass plots at the Public Square. Every year the city expends considerable money in labor to make the plot appear as nice as possible. There have been times when Fox's work has been ruined by some unthinking person. However, it has been noted that whenever parades are staged the section has been roped off.

NO RETURN VISIT

(International News Service)

RIO DE JANEIRO.—Just arriving from his vacation, President Getulic Vargas interviewed says he will not go to the United States, to repay the visit of the President Roosevelt to Brazil, last year. President Vargas explained that his term as president is almost over and the visit must be performed by the new president. The general elections for the presidency will be in January 3rd, 1938.

More persons were killed in the last four months on the roads of England than were killed in German air raids during the war, Lord Halifax declared in an address at the Doncaster School of Speech Day.

Legislators meeting in Harrisburg:

Will You take the responsibility for cutting the wage of every worker in Pennsylvania?

We ask that question sincerely and respectfully. We ask it of a Legislature that has time after time demonstrated its ability and eagerness to legislate for the benefit of men and women who work for a living. In view of this, we do not believe that there is a single Senator in Harrisburg who would give second thought to a bill which he knew would cut wages in Pennsylvania.

We refuse to think that the Senate, now in session at the State Capital, realizes that the Store Tax Bill, to which it is giving consideration, would have the effect of cutting the wage of every worker in this State.

We ourselves realize it, because many of us who are signing this article are in the retail food business. We deal with all classes of wage earners in our stores, year in and year out. Day after day we see that one-third of our population which is "ill-nourished, ill-clad, ill-housed"—thousands who first count their pennies, then hesitate between buying a loaf of bread or a bottle of milk. They cannot always afford both.

To such people even a slight rise in the cost of food means a very large cut in wages. There is no difference between reducing a family's wages a few dollars, and raising its cost of living a few dollars. Either way the family must buy less food, less clothes, and must live in a poorer home.

If the Store Tax Bill, which the Senate is considering, is passed, retail food prices will have to go up. In effect, this will be a cut in wages for every family, rich or poor, in the State. Of course, the well-to-do can bear a small reduction in income and suffer little more than the inconvenience or annoyance, but even the slightest cut in the wage of the majority of our citizens would mean disaster to them. The Store Tax would reduce the wages of those who could least afford it.

The Store Tax Bill proposes an enormous tax on each store in a chain, although chain stores already pay local, state and Federal taxes as high, if not higher, than other merchants. The tax, if it passes the Senate, would cost each store in the popular chains more than many of their smaller stores make. There are 3786 small chain food stores in Pennsylvania neighborhoods, not one of which makes enough money to pay its share of the tax this bill would place upon it.

Where then would the tax come from? By slashing our expense of doing business? But expenses are made up of wages to our managers and clerks, and warehouse workers and truckmen; and of rents to local landlords and payments to other Pennyslvania citizens. Would the Senate have us take the tax out of them? We do not think so.

Should it come out of the farmers from whom we buy our food? Pennsylvania farmers will tell you that chain stores are the best customers they have. Must we cut down their incomes to pay the tax?

There is only one way—higher food prices.

The Store Tax, if it passes the Senate, will come out of the wages of Pennsylvania voters.

That, of course, is our side of the story, but we say with all sincerity we believe it is also the wage earners' side. It is unfortunate that a large tax should be placed on food, especially at a time when so many people find it difficult to obtain food even at present prices. The reason given for the tax is to raise the salaries of rural teachers. Nobody would quarrel with that. But however commendable the purpose, must we place an excessive tax on the first essential of life? A tax on food is a tax on every man that lives. Could not the money to raise teachers' salaries come from a source other than from the poor?

We realize as we write that there are some Senators who differ with us honestly and conscientiously, and we know that every Pennsylvania Senator will vote on the Store Tax according to his best judgment. The record of this present Senate proves that.

But, if the Store Tax Bill becomes a law, and the wage earners of Pennsylvania feel the pinch of lowered real wages, we hope that the Senators now in session at Harrisburg are prepared to accept the full responsibility.

Reprint of Editorial from Philadelphia Evening Bulletin, March 22, 1937:

PENAL TAXATION

The "Chain Store Tax Act", House Bill 228, makes no pretense of design or purpose as a revenue measure. Dedication of its proceeds to the State's education fund, where it is expected to increase teachers' salaries, is an afterthought. This feature of the bill, which appears to have converted Governor Earle to an endorsement of it as an Administration measure, has no more to do with the real purpose of the bill and its merit or demerit than the proposed gift to the school funds of the State's rake-off from pari-mutuel betting has to do with the legalizing of race-tracks and their betting rings.

The law was designed purely to handicap the competition of "chain stores", the theory of the bill being that the larger the chain, the more stores operated under single ownership, the greater the economy of operation, and therefore the warrant for the imposition of the greater handicap in tax, or weight to be carried. On this essential theory of the bill, it would appear that its purpose is to overcome or balance an advantage possessed by chain store operation, by adding a tax to the cost of such operation. That tax must have its effect on chain store prices, if it is to affect competition as a handicap should.

There may be a logical plea in behalf of the individual merchant against the inequities of chain store competition. But over against that must be set the obvious plea of the consumer, customer, who, in the present trend of rising prices, has a right to buy in the lowest market and a right to protest against legislation which will, deliberately and arbitrarily, handicap that low market and bring an increase in its price level.

A member of the Legislature may choose to stand with the group of individual merchants who think they are to be benefitted by the chain-store tax, or he may stand with the large number of consumers who know they are to be hurt by it and protest. But no one can dodge the vital issue presented in this bill and stroke his chest in contented thought that he is voting some extra salary for the poor, forgotten, public school teacher

Senators Classed "Trouble Makers"

Washington Will Cause Trouble For Detroit, Yanks And Cleveland

"Bucky" Harris Has Fighting Team, Lot Depends On How Pitchers Show Up

By FRANK BUCK O'NEILL
International News Service Sports Writer

ORLANDO, Fla., March 24.—Baseball critics cast the Washington Senators in the role of troublemakers in 1937. The club does not figure to win the American League pennant, but in a consensus of experts it will play a prominent part in deciding outcome of the race.

"The Senators will be very tough to beat," is a statement you hear frequently.

"I feel confident we will finish in the first three," Manager Stanley Harris says.

The Senators finished fourth last season, with a courageous drive through the last few weeks. They might have finished third if rain had not stopped the Chicago White Sox on the last day of the season.

Better Than Last Year

Potentially, this is a better club than the 1936 edition of Senators. Increased power can be traced to these factors:

The apparent comeback of Frank (Shanty) Hogan, giving the Senators a good catcher and powerful right hand hitter; a happy, satisfied Ben Chapman in center field; the remarkable improvement of Buddy Lewis at third base and Cecil Travis at shortstop. If two young pitchers, Lefty Dick Lanahan and Johnny Salveson, come through and the veteran Buddy Myer regains championship form at second base, the Senators will be just that much tougher.

Manager Harris is counting on Hogan to catch 100 or more games this year, and believes he will make it. The big fellow, notorious as a play boy while with the New York Giants, seriously has settled down. He has pared his weight to 237 pounds and is trying to make it 225.

St. Nicholas Soft Ball Team To Have Meeting

The following boys are asked to attend the meeting: "Lefty" Polenick, John Polenick, Steve Teplica, John Teplica, Steve Motsko, G. Motsko, Mike Motsko, John Motsko, Teddy Warso, John Warso, John Soloninka, Pete Soloninko, Mike Soloninko, Dutkin, Horteg, Huffner, Dudo, Joe Hnat, Mike Hnat, Johnny Lucas, G. Lucas, G. Some Lines From Yesteryear

Now and then there has been in this column a line o'type about the late Charles Reed Gillium. There is no question but that he was one of the city's outstanding athletes. He accomplished considerable and was noted for being one of the very few players in the world who could palm a basketball in either hand alone; could hold six baseballs in one hand; was a star discus thrower at New Castle high; was Red Cross Life Saving service examiner! was a life guard at the Billy Glenn pool at Cascade Park for several seasons; was counsellor at Dick Victor camp boys for several seasons; played on the following strong professional basketball teams: Vic Hanson's All-Americans, Syracuse, N. Y., Rochester Centrals, Rochester, N. Y., Dayton Kellys, Dayton, O., Toledo Red Men. Toledo and had joined the famous New York Celtics under the leadership of Joe Lapchick and ill health forced his retirement. In addition he umpired in the Mid-Atlantic league and announced and officiated at Y wrestling bouts here.

Eight Teams In Baseball League

Circuit May Be Increased To Ten Teams If Tin Mill Decides To Join Up

There are eight teams in the City Baseball League at the present time with an indication that before the umpire calls "play ball" the first or second week in May, that there will be ten teams in the barrier.

Should Alex Black and his Tin Mill champs of last year decide to enter the league, an effort will be made to get another team. There are no teams in the league at present from the East Side.

The following teams are in the league at present: Sixth Ward Firemen, Ryantown, Colored Elks, K. Pulaskis, Lawrence Indies, Colonial A. C., West Pittsburg and South Side Board of Trade.

It has been suggested that the league play a staggered schedule. This plan may be adopted later. Contracts are being made and will be ready for the managers within a week.

So far nothing has been heard from the Lawrence County Umpires' Association as to what they intend to do this year. Two umpires will be assigned to all league games. The office of the president will stand back of all umpires sent out to work games.

Legislate Top Price Of $10 For Chicago Battle

(International News Service)

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 24.—In a high dudgeon, the state senate today sent to the house for concurrence its bill limiting to $10 the price of tickets for the scheduled Joe Louis-Braddock championship fight in Chicago June 22.

The measure which passed the senate last night with a war whoop was aimed particularly at promoters of the championship battle, for which the best tickets were to sell at $25.50 a piece.

Alarmed at the threat to the title fight, Chairman Joseph Triner of the Illinois athletic commission was reported on his way here to lead the fight against the bill in the house. Having obtained a 36 to 0 vote in the senate the bill would take effect immediately should the house take the same action and Gov. Henry Horner sign the bill.

Denny Shute and Horton Smith, professionals, deadlocked with a record of 67, five better than perfect figures. No fewer than 17 players authored sub-par rounds as John Maultic, Struthers, O., professional, scored an ace on the 143-yard ninth and the veteran amateur, Jess Sweetser, came through with a 71 to top the simon pures. Gene Sarazen could not do better than a 77 while Sam Parks of Pittsburgh carded a 73.

Many of the younger element about the city are talking of the proposed American Legion junior baseball league. For several years past the legion had a representative team. This season it is proposed to form a six-team league and select the representative team from the best players in the loop, according to Chairman Frank Wood. Ninety juniors will be given a chance to register at 1 p. m. April 3.

W. P. I. A. L. will inaugurate the baseball season on April 13, when section 2 starts play. The league this year has been divided into five sections. New Castle high has not been represented by a baseball team for years.

The Polish Falcons handed the K. Pulaski team a 44 to 33 defeating at the Pulaski floor in the third and deciding game of the New Castle Polish basketball championship series.

The Falcons won the title in two straight games. Russ Kawa, Henry Koszela and Joe Augustyn were the stars for the Falcons. For the K. P. team, the work of Boron, Hnat and Chernyavski was the best.

The score at the half favored the falcons, 23 to 15.

It was the final game of the year for the K. Pulaski quintet.

In the preliminary game the Falcon Reserves handed the Pulaski Reserves a 40 to 20 drubbing with G. Kendra, Potoczny, Slezeski, Walter Kwolek and Smythe the scoring stars of the battle.

Basketball Courts At High School Ready For Use

Ash Surface Applied To Ball Courts In Rear Of Senior High School Building

The newly constructed basketball courts in the rear of the high school building, are now nearly ready for use by the students.

A surface of ashes has been put on what was formerly an auto parking lot, and the ashes rolled smooth. Two complete courts, uniform in size and having four baskets have been laid out, and may be used at anytime by the students of the high school, according to the principal, Frank L. Orth.

This lot makes an ideal recreation spot, during lunch hours, and before and after school.

By obtaining permission from the principal of the school, any of the students may use the courts at any time that they wish.

Altoona-South Clash Tonight

Winner Of Game At State College Will Play Newport Township For State Toga

NEWPORT THUMPS STEELTON HIGH

(International News Service)

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., March 24.—South High and Altoona High cagers will clash here tonight in the Western regional final in the P. I. A. A. elimination.

Both teams have had several workouts on the State College hardwood. Fred Anske, brilliant Altoona shot maker, put on a fine exhibition. Joe Spak, hefty South High guard, has been named to watch the crafty Altoona forward.

May Play At Stadium

In the event of a South High victory, the Pittsburghers will play Newport for the state basketball championship, probably at the Pitt stadium. If the Altoonaites cop the honors the championship will probably be decided at Harrisburg.

This game tonight will be one of revenge for South High which was trimmed by Altoona in the regional play-offs in 1933, which was also played here.

Newport Tops Steelton

Many New Castle fans will be interested to learn that Newport Township High defeated Steelton last night 29 to 21 for the right to meet the winner of the Altoona-South game for the state championship this coming Saturday.

Such names as Voshefski, Zlonkiewicz and Murphy the Newport holdovers are quite familiar to the fans who made the long trek to Harrisburg last year to watch the Newporters take the measure of the New Castle High "Red Hurricanes" 34 to 32. The first named two boys had 20 of the Newport points last night.

N. Y. A. Passers Trim K. Pulaski

As the clock was ticking off the final two minutes of play, Styers plopped a field goal to give the N. Y. A. passers an 18-17 edge over the K. Pulaski cagers, in an exciting battle on the K. Pulaski floor.

The lineup follows:

Nelsno, Houk, Tinstman, A. Shilla, B. Sheehy, Davis, J. DeJoseph and Bud Kennehan, the latter will have charge of the meeting. Baseball will be discussed.

VIGGIANO IS HOME

Frank A. Viggiano, former well known softball and baseball star of the Keystone A. C., is home from Temple Medical school to spend the Easter vacation with his parents. Viggiano is in his first year at Temple. He is a graduate of Geneva college.

Title Series To Start At 'Y' Tonight

Gersons And Keystone A. C. Will Play First Game Of Three-Game Series

Basketball fans of New Castle are in for a big treat at the "Y" floor tonight. The first of a three-game series for the House-Indus league championship will be played with the Gersons meeting the fast Keystone A. C. The game will start at 8 o'clock.

The Keystone A. C. under Coach "Coots" Venditto won the first-half title and look the part of champions. The Gersons under Coach Bauman have won the second half and rightly so, due to their fine play in the closing weeks of the league. The battle tonight will be one of the best of the year. The teams are natural rivals.

Lots Of Stars

The lineups of both teams will be dotted with great stars such as Lester "Bus" Reiber former New Castle High luminary, who is being groomed by Coach Venditto as the star performer for the Keys. Then there is Nickie Gennock and Sammy Bullano a pair of rootin' tootin' forwards who make life miserable for opposing teams. In addition Venditto will have such well known stars as Johnnie Teplica, "Sham" Kearns, Harry Hordig, Walt Shook and Mike DiMuccio.

The Keys get the edge in the series due to their wonderful showing at the Boardman, Ohio tourney and their upset of the Falcons recently. However Coach Earl Bauman will counter with Russ Kawa, the Falcon ace forward, Joe Cooper a muchly improved player this year and "Ev" Laitenen former Shenango High star to try and make up for the Keystone scoring threat. Jack Llewellyn and Nickie Ross are other Gerson threats.

Have Fine Records

The Gersons sponsored by Jack Gerson, local jeweler have compiled a fine record in the first year and hope to topple the Keys. Both teams have fine reserve material on hand a big help to any ball club.

Indications point to a packed gym floor when the two fine teams trot out to start the warming up preliminaries. There are no reserved seats at the "Y" and first there are first served.

Following are the probable lineups:

Gersons		Keystones
Kawa	F	Bullano
Cooper	F	Gennock
		Kearns or
Wallace	C	Teplica
Lewellyn	G	Reiber
		Hordig or
N. Ross	G	Teplica

WHAT BIG LEAGUE TEAMS ARE DOING

(International News Service)

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., Mar. 24.—Virtually the whole team was suffering with some kind of a cold today as the Pittsburgh Pirates broke camp for Los Angeles where they meet the Whitesox this afternoon in the first of the spring exhibition games. Lloyd Waner who has been in bed the past few days was well enough to watch yesterday's practice from the sidelines.

Mexico City, March 24.— With only a short workout scheduled, Connie Mack's Athletics were taking life easy today. Tomorrow, Saturday and Sunday, the Philadelphia nine will play an all-star team, picked from the Mexican teams that they have trounced so far. Yesterday it was the Necaxa club, which fell 13 to 2. By running up lopsided scores on Mexican teams, the A's are paying the penalty of playing before empty grandstands.

Winter Haven, Fla., March 24.— Its a half-holiday today for the merchants here. At noon they'll lock up shop to journey out to the ball park where the Phillies open the home stand of the Grapefruit League season against the Detroit Tigers. "We've gotten all the bad baseball out of our system and we're ready to go," declared Jimmy Wilson, catcher-manager of the Phils. "I think those cocky Tigers will be as good as any club to start on."

Clearwater, Fla., March 24.—A second game here today with the Brooklyn Dodgers was scheduled today for the Yankees, who beat the Dodgers 9 to 6 at St. Petersburg yesterday.

Orlando, Fla., March 24.—After a 7 to 2 victory over the Detroit Tigers the Washington Senators today were ready to take on the St. Louis Cardinals again at Daytona Beach. A victory for the Senators will make it five straight wins in the Grapefruit League games.

Los Angeles, March 24.—Thornton Lee, Italo Chelini and John Rigney were named to divide the White Sox pitching chores in today's exhibition game with the Pittsburgh Pirates with Manager Jimmy Dykes remoaning the practice layoff due to bad weather the Sox went through a two and one half hour batting session yesterday.

Avalon, Cal., March 24.—The Cubs break camp today to journey to the mainland for a series of exhibitions beginning with Friday's set-to with the White Sox. Manager Charley Grimm ordered more work for his first stringers, who dropped the first four out of five games to the so-called second stringers.

GOLF LEAGUERS MEETING TONIGHT

All arrangements have been completed for the meeting this evening of the teams in the New Castle Golf League, in the third floor assembly room, at the City Building, President Abe Jackson announced today.

Election of officers and plans for the season will be discussed at the meeting.

PLAN TITLE GAME

The Keystone A. C. basketball team House-Indus league champs at the "Y" will meet the Polish Falcons at the Falcon hall on Wednesday night, March 31, for the city and county championship. The series at the present time is one game apiece. The Falcons Reserves will meet the Keystone Juniors in the preliminary canto.

Oxford Winner Of Boat Race

Oxford Crew Upsets Cambridge For First Time In 14 Years

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PUTNEY-ON-THAMES, England, March 24.—For the first time since 1923, the dark blues won the 89th annual Oxford-Cambridge boat race today in a titanic struggle that saw first one crew then the other forge ahead.

The official margin of victory for Oxford was three lengths. Oxford took the lead 300 yards from the finish and kept it from then on.

The official time for the four and a quarter mile race was 22 minutes 39 seconds.

Thousands of enthusiasts who witnessed the race went wild with joy at the result, particularly since it was the first time Oxford had triumphed in the historic event in 14 years.

The race was one of the closest in the history of the event. It developed into a magnificent duel with the issue always in doubt until the last quarter-mile.

Tilden-Perry Play Tonight

Fred Perry Is Favored To Defeat Veteran Tilden In Grudge Match

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, March 24.—To a man behind a stanchion, it might look like an attempt by an old gaffer and a young buck to come in here once and bounce us around for some fresh money. But there will be blood in the eye and rancor in the air, very real and strictly personal, as old Bill Tilden, the American master, and young (Sic) Fred Perry, of England, meet in the first of their professional tennis series at Madison Square Garden tonight.

It's Perry, tonight's favorite, who is doing most of the burning, for with Tilden the feeling seems to be largely one of austere contempt.

Worlds Worst

"The world's worst good tennis player," he has called Perry for public utterance and, since that one showed in print, you could warm over the marmalade on the young man's brow. He used to hang about the dressing rooms at Wimbledon ten years ago just to hear Tilden talk. But, with that last statement, he thinks he's about ready to wind up the interview and call it a friendship.

Possibly the customers have sensed something of this, although to mention anything like sense and the customers at the same time is to bandy terms with great freedom. Anyhow, the sale was said to be $18,000 up to Monday and may do better than $30,000 tonight, probably because there's a legend that Tilden, even on the chilly side of 45, is still the best one-match man in tennis.

Perry, at least 18 years the younger, never has faced Tilden except in comparatively unimportant doubles matches, so both still have to be convinced. However, they'll know more about that after their brief tour carries through Chicago, Pittsburgh, Detroit and Boston.

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, March 24.—Along Bash Boulevard today we find... Col. John Kilpatrick, Jimmy Johnston, Joe Jacobs, Mike Jacobs, Max Machon and Max Schmeling...all heading for the Queen Mary...on which the two Maxes are leaving...

Everybody laughing except Schmeling...who is still foaming at the mouth...not because he failed to lure Jim Braddock to Berlin ...but because in his hurry to pack ...Max gargled a hair shampoo instead of a mouth wash...and wound up with a mouthful of foamy suds...

Max checked his trunks here... and is traveling with a suit case... He says he'll return late next month...accompanied by his beautiful actress wife...Anna Ondra... "Maybe," grins Max, "the Americans they like to see her besser as me, no?"...

Old Bill Tilden figures he has played almost 12,000 tennis matches in the last 35 years...and has batted the ball 100 million times...

Henry Armstrong has been promised a May 14 date with the winner of the Lou Ambers-Pedro Montanez fight next week...

Madison Square Garden will declare an extra dividend in the next few weeks...All attractions having made money...except boxing... which shows a deficit...despite almost half a million gross gates...

PRINCETON, Tex.—Kate Smith isn't a bit finicky about her diet. In case you haven't identified Kate, that's the name of the singing mouse of Collin county. FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL.

It has been requested . . . by the love stick of this fair city . . . that we run part of our column and give advice to those less fortunate souls . . . those that have taken the runout powder . . . or for some other reason have been disappointed in this game called love.

Our ability to answer questions of this type is unquestionable . . . if you have any questions you wish answered just send them to this column . . . as we said before, we can give advice to the lovers but when it comes to ourselves . . . that's another question.

* * *

Our old friend Decon Caldwell has returned fro mthe south . . . he sure looks fine . . . just as lively as ever . . . the sun sure did fill his soul with the vitamins of life . . . had a short talk with him and the first thing he talked about was the beach . . . there must have been something on that beach that made him look twice . . . by the way Mr. Caldwell is an expert swimmer . . . he swims like a fish and I don't mean maybe . . . the month of January was the nicest month, he says . . . will keep that in mind so when we retire we won't go the wrong month . . . welcome back our friend and may you enjoy the best of health.

We dedicate this paragraph to Mercer street . . .

Stock Market Tone Is Firm

Gains Of Point And More In Leaders, Market Has Buoyant Tone

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service
Financial Writer

NEW YORK, March 24.—A generally firm tone ruled in the stock market today in a continuation of yesterday's recovery, as Wall Street sentiment was buoyed by the scheduled meeting between Walter P. Chrysler and John L. Lewis in an effort to settle the prolonged motor strike.

Gains generally were limited to a little over a point. Settlement of the Bohn Aluminum labor tie-up also was a helpful factor marketwise.

Traction shares were up among the leaders from the opening gong, reflecting the passage of six bills in the state senate designed to increase the pay of employes of the city-owned independent subway system, greatly increasing operating expenses of the latter line. Interborough, B. M. T. and Manhattan Railway each climbed more than a point, while the Manhattan guaranteed stock spurted two.

Steels, most rails, mail orders and motors all were in moderate demand at improved levels. Utilities, communications and a few specialties were somewhat easier.

Bethlehem led the way in the steels, running up more than two points before meeting with profit-taking. U. S. Steel, Republic and Youngstown gained close to a point each.

Fractional price changes were the rule in motors and rails. Chrysler opened almost a point higher, but lost part of this later in the first hour. Great Northern preferred in the carriers was up more than a point at one time.

Allied Chemical, on a delayed opening just before 11 a. m., spurted 4½ points at 242½ after a series of bid and asks. Westinghouse dropped 1½ at the start, but recovered all later.

Bonds moved irregularly higher, as governments improved further. Grains ran up as much as two cents a bushel in general commodity strength. Cotton advanced 50 cents a bale.

Plan Baseball Revival For Ellwood City

Local Sport Leaders Meet At Shelby To Plan For Big Season Here

Plan To Enter Beaver County League; Will Have 10 Teams This Year

ELLWOOD CITY, March 24.—A make or break attitude for baseball in Ellwood City was adopted at a big meeting of the leaders of the sport Tuesday night at the Shelby Clubhouse, as plans were formulated for the coming season.

About 40 gathered there last night with Merle Means presiding. Connie Wardman, present deputy sheriff and father of Ellwood City baseball, told of some of his experiences in managing some real first class teams in Ellwood City. In his day the local town was a baseball haven and the city held a high place in the sun for this sport. Other old timers heard from were Carlo Johns, former ace pitcher, "Lefty" Brown, and Grundy Volpe. Mr. Wardman stated that from his view of the games in the local Twilight League last year, there was no reason why Ellwood City could not put a real first class team on the field from the material in the league last year.

The feature of the evening was a talk by Wilbur Cooper of Beaver Falls, former ace hurler of the Pittsburgh Pirates and Chicago Cubs. After telling of his experiences in rising from sandlot to big league baseball, he told of the new Beaver County League being formed. Ten teams have signified their intentions to join. It will be a real league of hard played baseball. Plants sponsoring the teams are going after players like in the old days. Upon request Mr. Cooper stated that franchise forfeit of $50 in the league this year will be held open for Ellwood City for a week, thus giving a local committee, the time to do some work.

Secretary Denny Schill of the Chamber of Commerce, former Ellwood City high athletic director, stated that if it is the intention to put a first class team into the league representing Ellwood City, then he will see to it that the team is given proper support. A committee of Mr. Schill, chairman, Merle Means, Dick Downing and Mr. Wardman were appointed to see to the matter of putting the field into condition for play and to the raising of $300 which will be needed for expenses this season. It is planned to sell Booster season tickets for one dollar.

Another meeting of this group will be held early next week.
